

Abstract

The present invention relates to compositions including blends of microbial oils, methods of using such compositions, particularly as supplements for 5 infant formula, and methods of increasing the amount of long chain polyunsaturated fatty acids in infant formula.